OSWEGO, New York (April 21, 2010) – Craig Fitzpatrick, of Fulton, New York, has been appointed to the position of Financial Consultant at Pathfinder Investment Services, a division of Pathfinder Bank, according to Robert Rolfe, Investment Executive.

“It is with great pride that we welcome Craig to our team,” said Rolfe. “His enthusiasm will help the organization continue to offer a high level of personalized service to each of our clients. It is nice to add a lifelong Fulton resident to our staff as well.”

Fitzpatrick’s primary responsibilities will be to collaborate with individuals, families, and businesses, and assist them with accumulating and protecting assets, as well as developing income strategies.

“Craig’s services will enable us to welcome new individuals and families to Pathfinder Investment Services,” said Rolfe. “His presence will allow us to do this effectively, while continuing to expand on our service in the areas of small business benefits and advisory services.”

Fitzpatrick worked previously for HSBC Bank USA as a Branch Relationship Banker. He earned a degree in Management at St. John Fisher College. While in college, Fitzpatrick was a member of the varsity football team, where he was elected to a leadership position by his teammates as a “unity council” representative, a role that required him to discuss the best interests of the team with the coaches.
